Dear Diary,

I feel sad today. I participated in speech competition for the first time and I literally, froze when I was half through. I was performing so well and I don’t understand what went wrong with me. I was down in dumps the whole day.

But, now I have decided that I won’t feel disheartened anymore. I will take this failure as a stepping stone to future success. I will work harder and better myself to win the competition next time.
